

Code of Conduct

This leaflet sets out the commitment of members to a code of ethics and conduct.

□ IHIE members make a professional commitment to act responsibly with regard to safety and the environment, to act ethically, to maintain and develop their competence and to support new and prospective entrants. All members agree to abide by the IHIE code of conduct which requires:

“Every Corporate Member of the institute at all times to so order his or her conduct as to uphold the dignity and reputation of the profession and to maintain his or her technical and professional competence and to safeguard the public in matters of safety, health and otherwise pertaining to the work of the highway and traffic incorporated engineer and technician”.

See over for an additional statement of Rules elaborating on the Code.

The Memorandum and Articles provide for disciplinary action if a member is found to have breached the code. However, the expectation is that members abide by the code because they recognise the duty they owe society and themselves to uphold the standing of their chosen profession.

Copies of IHIE's disciplinary procedures and equal opportunities policy are available on the website www.ihie.org.uk (go to "publications") or from the office.

The IHIE Code is based on Engineering Council (UK) guidance.

You are advised to obtain the Engineering Council (UK) Guidelines on Risk and on Engineers and the Environment.

□ You are obliged as an IHIE member to achieve five days a year of structured Continuing Professional Development. Your CPD should be guided by and recorded in a personal development plan. Helpful personal advice and support is available from the Deputy Secretary and all members have "Moving ahead: your guide to Continuing Professional Development". This is IHIE's guide to planning your development and includes helpful template forms which can also be downloaded from the website.

IHIE is required to monitor members' compliance with this obligation by the Engineering Council (UK).

□ IHIE is committed to equality of opportunity for everyone applying for membership and for the Professional Review and to removing any barriers to applicants and members achieving their full potential. In turn we expect you not to discriminate and to promote equal opportunities.
